On December 13, 1978 Ken James was in our home in preparation for a District Commission training session. Ken's uniform was at the dry cleaners and he left the house to pick it up. On leaving, Ken invited my oldest son [REDACTED] to go with him.

[REDACTED] accepted and went to the dry cleaners to pick up the uniform. After leaving the cleaners and on the way back to our house, Ken told [REDACTED] that he would make [REDACTED] "ing tickled" by using his theory that if you are tickled enough, you will finally overcome the laughing. On talking back this, Ken reached across the car and began tickling [REDACTED] in the groin area. [REDACTED] told him to quit but Ken did not stop at that time, but did quit directly. There were no further advances.

[REDACTED] did not tell us of the incident, nor did we have any knowledge of it until the first of gay came up at the dinner table on the evening of Feb. 8, 1979.

The foregoing tickling incident was preceded by him tickling [redacted] on the ribs and stomach while in our line. This tickling by him lasted so long that it came to be boring and almost become cruel. Since he was asleep in our home and [redacted] was not hurt by the tickling, nothing was said to him about the excessive tickling.

At the time he invited [redacted] to go to the [redacted] dance, our younger son asked if he could go also. He told him very nicely that he could not go with them. At the time of the incident, I was puzzled by his behavior, not allowed to go, but refusing by the nicest means with which he was acquainted.
